THE BANK STATEMENT. The weekly statement of the associated banks proves highly favorable, the gain in specie and legal tenders being over six millions and the gain in net reserve over five millions. The statement is made on rising averages, so that the condition of the banks is really much better than presented in these figures, and will be more truly indicated by next Saturday's statement, should no untowar

RELATIONS OF RESERVE and liabilities. Were the banks to report their condition as they stood at the close of business this afternoon the gain in reserve would doubtless show as much as eight or nine millions. The easier posi-tion in which the banks have found themselves has enabled them to send large amounts of currency to the South and West, the outflow t which regions is shown in the discrepancy between against an increase of over six millions in legs nders and specie. A contraction of a million and half in loans is not so readily explained, unless t the supposition that the banks

CANCELLED MORE LOANS in the earlier part of the week than they made in the latter, the principle of averages making the result appear as in the statement. The gain in specie is just about the difference between the Treasury disbursements by public sale and fo interest and the receipts on account of custom duties. The increase in legal tenders is accounted for by the Treasury purchases of bonds of wh only $4,400,000 out of the five millions bought h been turned in at the close of business to-day. statement contrasts with its predecessor of

The government bond market was steady, in sympathy with gold, with a strong undertone, the currency bonds being higher. The following were the closing quotations:—United States currency sixes, 112%; a 112%; de. do., 1881, registered, 114% a 114%; 112% a 112%; de. do., 1881, registered, 114% a 114%; do. do., coupon, 116% a 116%; do. five-twenties, registered, May and November, 111% a 112%; do. do., 1862, coupon, do., 115% a 115%; do. do., 1863, do. do., 115% a 115%; de. do., 1865, do. do., 115% a 116; do. do., 1867, registered, January and July, 114% a 114%; do. do., 1867, do. do., 1868, do. do., 1867, do. do., 114% a 114%; do. do., 1888, do. do., 114% a 114%; do. do., 1888, do. do., 114% a 114%; do. do., 1888, do. do., 114% a 114%; do. do., fives of 1881, registered, 110% a 110%; do. do., coupon, 110% a 110%. STOCKS STRONG, BUT LESS ACTIVE.

The stock market was less active as regards the amount of business in the whole list; but, leaving out of consideration the diminished dealings in Pacific Mail, there was perhaps a gain in general

Pacific Mail, there was perhaps a gain in general activity. At least there was a wider distribu-tion of the speculative interest, and a spas-modic running from one stock to another, until prices at the close showed an improvement ranging from ½ a 1½ per cent. The early card was Pacific Mail, which the pool endeavored, or professed to endeavor, to "corner," being worth at one time a half per cent more than that deliverable on Monday. The price in the regular way advanced to 85%, and the highest for cash stock during the day was 85%. The speculation next ran on Union Pacific, which sold at 39%, and eventually on Rock Island, which closed at 110%, and Western Union Telegraph, which wound up at 74% a 74%. The good bank statement excited its usual paradoxical effect and caused a decline just after its appearance, but the "sober second thought" caused a brilliant raily and further advance and a lively movement generally in the closing half hour of business. Hannibal and St. Joseph sold at 37% and closed at 37. Canton advanced to 97. New York Central advanced to 95% on the announcement that the trunk lines had

on Monday. Lackawanna advanced to 99. Boston, Hartford and Erie touched 9%. The Southern State bonds were a little lower for the Tennessees, but firm for the new South Caro lines and strong for the Virginias. The Virginia consols rose two per cent, to 53%. The South Caro

FLIGHT OF JAIL BIRDS.

The Escape of Prisoners from Blackwell's Island.

Sixteen Desperadoes Take a French Conge During the Year-A Gang Capture a Boat and Their Keeper, and All But One Get Away-Another Attempt Frustrated Yesterday.

The boldest escape on record of convicts from The boldest escape on record of convicts from the Penitentiary, at Blackwell's Island, took piace on Priday alternoon, when six powerfully built desperades, rowing past Hell Gate, in a prison boat, accompanied by their keeper, Patrick Gearcy, rose upon him, seized his pistol, and, cocking it, threatened to blow out his brains and throw him overboard if he moved hand less, for the convicts were masters of the situation. They forced him to steer them to the foot of 106th street, East River, where they landed and made their escape, their first proceed-ing being to run towards the gas works there in process of construction, where they were furnished with clothes by the laborers or accomplices, which hid from public gaze their

ZEBRA-PATTERNED PRISON GARB. Startling as the announcement may appear, no less than sixteen prisoners, including the five just mentioned, have escaped this year from Black-well's Island Penitentiary, and doubtless many of the incarcerated rascals there think, according the well-known couplet,

Stone walls do not a prison make, Nor iron bars a cage; for when so many of their number escape, each man may justifiably hope that his day will come sooner or later. About a couple of years ago, at Sixty-second street, a keeper engaged in the Penitentiary found half a dozen pistols levelled at his head, and he was ordered to let his boat's crew go ashore, which they did and escaped. Upon arriving on the New York side

No PROTECTION EXISTS FOR THE REPPERS, and any well-organized gang of rullians can take possession of these boats, there being merely the pistol of the detective to fear. A couple of armed men at these points as sentinels is an absolute necessity.

THE LAST ATTEMPTED ESCAPE.

Testerday a young Frenchman, a penitentiary prisoner, tried to reach Manhattan Island from Ward's Island, where he was working for the day in company with a hundred other prisoners. He rushed down to the water's edge and attempted to swim across the river, but hardly had he entered the water when three shots came hissing into the stream near him and caused him to reconsider his plans. The hundred prisoners just alinded to are taken daily in the steamboat belonging to the Commissioners of Charities and Correction to work on Ward's Island and are placed between decks, under a guard of ten armed keepers.

A VISIT TO BLACKWELL'S ISLAND.

The writer went yesterday to the foot of Eighty-sixth street, where escapes from the workhouse are of frequent occurrence. To this place also come "ten-day men," principally sent for drunkenness and street brawls. At the foot of Eighty-sixth street stands a refreshment saloon, and one of the walter's there said it was quite a common thing to see men swimming off the Island, and when they landed their friends would be waiting with a change of clothes for them, the prison garb being thrown into the river. Walking down avenue A the reporter soon reached the Workhouse ferry. The keeper had his pistol on his knee and steered the boat, the oarsmen being "ten-day men." Walking lounging about, awaiting the supper bell, a large iron gate was entered, and the reporter found himself in the Penitentiary grounds. Passing through a beautiful avenue of several hundred yards in was reached. Addressing himself to a prisoner engaged in the useful pursuit of knife cleaning, he learned that Mr. Fitch had just left for Baltimore and would not be back for ten days. Nothing remained but to find the deputy warden, Mr. Cuenhaven. He was found in the prison, but was not as to the number of prisoners who had escaped this year or to give the names of all the men who had escaped, as the clerk had all-dy left. He said that when prisoners escaped they were almost invariably befriended by accomplices, who awaited them on the New York shore. He considered the escape of the five men as the boldest affair on record at the Island, and he had himself had much experience with the prisoners. Suosequently the reporter paid a visit to the keeper, Mr. Geary, from whom the five men had escaped. In appearance he is a handsome man and possesses a remarkably determined cast of feature.

THE KEFFER'S STORY.

On Friday afternoon, at half-past four o'clock, as I was pulling down from Ward's Island, against a strong ebb tide, running past Hell Gate, laden with a cargo of sod, a boat manned by two men pulled across my bows. No sooner had this occurred than my stroke slipped his oar, doubtless intentionally. I called out to him to recover it, and he got up, and with two others (there were six persons rowing) sprang aft and pinioned my arms just as I was in the act of pulling out my pistol. They selected it from

They seized it from my grasp, cocked it, and threatened to blow out my brains if I stirred hand or foot and throw me into the water. They then turned the boat up the river and headed for 106th street, where five of them landed and ran off at full speed to the gas works. The sixth man, a German, was in getting ashore, and I managed to capture him. I then moored the boat, and with my prisoner went to the Eighty-sixth street police station, where I caused an alarm to be given, but up to the present moment none of them have been recaptured. Their names have been given by me to Detective Mahoney, of the Fourth ward, who will soon have some of them back again. I have been nearly four years a keeper, and have never lost a prisoner. I was appointed through the Hon. Denis Burns. I consider the vigilance exercised effectual on the Island, but this case is an exceptional one. The guard boats are continually plying round the island, the bell rings. Last summer we were short of keepers. Thanking the keeper for his statement, the reporter bade him good night.

CRIME IN NEWARK.

Arraignment of the Krementz Burglars-A Militia Captain in Limbo-Stabbing a Conductor.

In the Newark courts vesterday Billy O'Brien. alias Porter, the notorious New York burglar; Hirsch Harris, alias Grenthal, the receiver, and Mary Ann Johnson, the latter's daughter, were arraigned to plead on indictments charging them with being implicated in the now famous Krementz burglary case. Harris and his daughter pleaded not guilty, and Harris and his daughter pleaded not guilty, and their trial was set down for the 21st instant. O'Brien, who is also indicted for a desperate attempt to break jail, the boldest on record in Newark, pleaded guilty to both, having first admitted the justice of only one indictment. Thomas Jackes and Ronald McNichol, the bail bond conspirators in the same case, were also indicted and placed before the bar to plead. "Not guilty" was their answer, and their trial was set for the 23d. Charles Hickey, Patrick Smith and James Murphy, each charged with complicity in the attempt of O'Brien, alias Porter, to break jail, were also indicted and will be tried on the 18th.

In the lower Court, before the Police Justice, Captain Albert Gademan, of the Veteran regiment, was called up to answer a charge of bigamy preferred by Catharine Gademan. She alleges that Gademan was married to her several years ago in Pottsville, Pa., and after living for some time with her left her with her parents and removed to Newark. Soon after arriving here he married again and joined the Flith veteran regiment, and in course of time was elected to a captaincy. About a month ago he became dissatisfied with his Newark spouse and sent to Pottsville for the old one. He hired two houses and spent three days with one and then three days with the other, telling both that he was compelled to work at nights in the factory. Finally this double-shuffle play was found out and hence the arrest at the instance of the Pottsville spouse. The captain is also accused of having deeced his company out of $87. For this, too, he is under arrest.

An Alleger Ruppian.

There is now confined at Police Headquarters in Newark one Michael Seeley, who is charged by Edward Evertson, a conductor on the Newark and New York Railroad, with having stabbed him in the thigh the night before. Seeley, it seems, was a passenger on Evertson's train, with his wife, and refused to pay his fare at first. Threatened with being put of, he paid it. Hence, as alleged, the dastardly attack. He is held.

The Chief of Police Arraigned-He Pleads Not Guilty to Each of the Four Indict-ments-The Trial Set Down for Wednes-

Chief of Police McWilliams was brought before the Court of Oyer and Terminer, at Jersey City, yesterday morning, and called upon to plead to our indictments found against him. The first charges him with having burglars' tools in his possession, with intent to break into and rob the First National Bank. The second charges him with breaking and entering; the third with having conspired with John seph Foley to break and enter the First National Bank, with intent to steal, and the fourth with Bank, with intent to steal, and the fourth with misconduct in office in neglecting to arrest parties whom he found in possession of burgiars' tools. To all of these McWilliams pleaded not guilty. The trial was set down for next Wednesday, the same day on which Detective Doyle will be tried. McWilliams was remanded to the County Jall and had not given bail up to a late hour last evening. The trial was at first set down for tomorrow, but the Chief informed the Court that he could not be ready so soon. Mr. Winneld, his counsel, desired a postponement till Monday week, but Juage Bedle informed him that the application, based on proper affidavits, must be made on Wednesday. The case will be tried by Juage Depue.

based on proper amdavits, must be made on wednesday. The case will be tried by Judge Depue.

McWilliams looks haggard and careworn. He says his good name is destroyed, even if he be acquitted, by the publicity given to the charges. But the disgrace in which his family is involved is the most acute pang of all. He declines to mention his whereabouts during the past few days, when all were looking for him. There is the very best authority, however, for the statement that he applied himself for two or three days to the task of drowning his sorrows in the tears of the cup. The mental agony which he endured during the past week must have been fearful. A speedy trial is most desirable to him. A prominent Newark lawyer will conduct the defence, in connection with Mr. Winfield, and the name of a very able lawyer of New Brunswick was mentioned in connection with the defence of Doyle last evening. Doyle is out on bail, while McWilliams is in jail. The latter seems to be so overpowered with his troubles that he does not care much to obtain bail. He is quartered in the witness room of the County Jail, and his friends are allowed to have recourse to him at all reasonable hours.

BEECHER'S BAIL BOND.

In the Superior Court last June Judge Freed In the Superior Court last June Judge Freed-man issued a warrant for the arrest of one A. C. Benedict, on the complaint of the Gutta Percha Manufacturing Company, who charged him with some peccadilloes, the nature of which are not clearly denned. The arrest was made and Messrs. Henry Ward Beecher and a Mr. Hull entered into recognizance in the sum of $30,000 for Benedict's appearance to answer. Messrs. Beecher and Hull becoming a little suspicious of Mr. Benedict, on Friday surrendered him to Deputy Sheriff Erb, who conveyed the accused to Ludlow Street Jail.

The Witnesses To Be Given an Opportunity to-Testify in Their Own Defence-Discharge of Testify in Their Own Defence—Discharge
Two of the Negro Prisoners and Preb-able Discharge of Two White Men— Hugh Cassily's Statement - A Strong Fight To Be Made for the Prisoners.

Confinement seems to thrive with the colored men, as they presented a more subdued and decent ap-pearance than when they were first consigned to prison. Justice Durham took his seat on the bench at half-past nine o'clock, and the counsel on both sides ranged themselves on either side of the table which for the past two weeks has been appropriated to the representatives of the press.
The active Kuhi and the depressed Bird appeared for the defence, and the gentlemanly Chamberlain and the Father of the Bar, Ailen, for the prosecution. Mary Wolverton, whose direct testimony was given yes-terday, was cross-examined this morning:—I heard the man who had the gun—and who told the crowd as they came back that they were on the wrong road—say that the negroes had killed one of their men (Enwright, and they were going to have revenge; College was the last man who passed and the last one I remember seeing; Miss Apiar and myself were between the village and the store when James McFarland, a mason, was the first witness placed upon the stand.

I don't know any of the prisoners; saw Delay at work one day; can't say whether it was inside of outside the tunnel; have had a conver a los with three or four men, who told me they were in the riot, but none of them are among the prisoners; on of them was named Quinn; don't know the names of the others.

Cross-examined—I live in Ousego county, New York; I am a stone-outler; was in Patenburg on Friday before the riot; saw Delay, but don't remember where he was the riot; saw Delay, but don't remember where he was the riot; saw and the riot was a blacksmith; I saw him at white farm house, where they sold appleack; remember it now; saw him that night; I went over the mountain on Saturday; saw Quinn there the next day (Sunday) there was a very small man with him—about the smallest you can find in New Jersey; they came over the mountain, where I was, and told me about the riot, and that they were in it; saw ten or twelve men, with expetibags, that day leave by the Central road.

The witnesses for the prosecution being all exiain, where I was, and told me about the rlot, and that they were in it; saw ten or twelve men, with carpety bags, that day leave by the Central road.

The witnesses for the prosecution being all exhausted the District Attorney proposed to place the prisoners immediately upon the stand. Mr. Kuhl asked for an adjournment, on the ground that counsel for the defence had no intimution that such a course was to be pursued, and as they had had no consultation with the prisoners he thought it would be unfair to bring them upon the stand without due notice having been given. Mr. Chamberlain insisted that it was proper to examine the prisoners, and that there was no necessity for them to confer with counsel it order to tell the truth. Mr. Bird eloquently supported his colleague, Mr. Kuhl, and advanced unanswerable arguments why an adjournment should be had. Mr. Alensald that his own opinion was that the defence had a right to call witnesses for the defence, though, he said, the privilege had been sometimes denied him. The duty of the Justice is limited, he said, and it was not for him to pronounce upon the guilt or innocence of the prisoners; his duty was merely to see whether they were to be held for examination or not. The prosecution did not pretend to examine the prisoners under oath, and he admitted the peculiar position in which the counsel for the defence and the prisoners were placed, and he recognized the justice of Mr. Bird's remarks and would not oppose the motion it the District Attorner was of the same mind.

Mr. Bird thanked Mr. Allen for his generous conduct, and asked for an adournment until Monday.

ARKED FOR THE DISCHARGE OF JOHN BOGUE, on the ground that sufficient evidence had not been advanced to hold him. Mr. Allen objected, and said there was aiready sufficient evidence advanced not only to hold him but to convict him. An application was also made for the discharge of George Milburn and two of the negroes, Yates and Thatcher. Mr. Allen would not oppose the motion regarding Milburn if the latter would give security to appear as a witness on the trial of such of the prisoners as would be held, and so far as the two prisoners as would be held, and so far as the two negroes were concerned, there being no evidence to hold them, he would consent to their discharge. They were discharged accordingly and left the Court. Sammy Wilson, the third negro, was remanded back to prison, there being very strong evidence against him.

They were discharged accordingly and left the Court. Sammy Wilson, the third negro, was remanded back to prison, there being very strong evidence against him.

Mr. Kuhl asked what disposition was to be made of the case of Cassidy, the old Irishman, against whom not an lota of testimony had been advanced, and much amusement was created in Court by the lively sketch the old man gave of the way he came to be in his present difficulty.

He said:—I wak on McFadden's job, near the ould Presbyterian church and was at home in my bed on the night of the riot and until nine o'clock the next Sunday morning. I knew nothing of the row until I heerd that a white man had been cut up in pieces like butcher's mate by the naygurs. I am a going to tell the truth, gentlemen, and I'll explain how I come to be arrested. On Tuesday morning an ould frind that I did not see for tin years called on me where I boreded, and we tuke to dhrinking. I got putty tight. Oh, gentlemen, I don't deny it. I'll coniess my faults before the Coort, and while I was dhrinking applejack in Clinton a nayger come up, and begin to talk about the row they had on Sunday down at the tunnil. He tould me the white men had burnid the nayger shantees, and robbed them of their effects. I said to him, "You are a thundhering lying hayger; didn't you cut the white man in pieces-like butcher's mate, you black snoozer you." He said something more to me about what the Irish had done, and I said to him again, "You lie, you nayger, and if I had you behind a wood and a gun in my hands I would put you from telling lies in a hurry again." I don't know anything more until I was arrested, and I did not know where I was brought, for when I was going into jail here I thought I was going into a tavern. The Sheriff told me I would get a good drink, and he knows the condition I was in as well as I do myself. I heard alterwards that the "mayger" had sworn against me, but he has left the country, and when he is not produced against me I don't see any reason why you should held me.

me.

Mr. Allen said if the prisoner would give surety to keep the peace he would be released, but as the prisoner is a stranger and has no friends in the district he may have difficulty in procuring ball. As it is a manifest injustice to hold him he will probably be discharged.

The Court was then adjourned until nine o'clock on Sunday morning, when the most interesting day's session yet held may be expected.

THE COMMISSIONERS OF EMIGRATION OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK, STATE EMIGRATION OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK, STATE EMIGRATH REFUGE AND HOSPITAL WARD'S ISLAND, N. Y. MEDICAL OFFICE, OC. 12, 1872.

DEAR SIR—Amelia Kietber, whose statement you took yesterday, died this morning. As you expressed the wish-to be present at the post-mortem examination we will not hold it till you are present. Respectfully yours, PHIL ENROZES, M. D.

When questioned Dr. Respectfully yours.

It is took the woman's ante-mortem; that she was very low at the time, but she stated that the nurse failed to attend to her for an hour and a half after being requested, and that a post-mortem would be made yesterday. The boctor further volunteered the statement that he did not believe the woman died of the neglect-charged by her against the nurse. It is hardly possible that this professional opinion can be of value in the absence of any post-mortem having been made to show the actual cause of death. For some reason best known to beputy Coroner Beach, he falled to file the ante-mortem taken by him in the Coroners' office, and the public must wait for the inquest on Monday to develop the facts that it would seem the medical gentlemen are sudesyoring to suppress for the time being.
